Mayville is the garden spot of the world for these things.

This following is from the Sunday Morning Call: "J. B." in speaking of Miss Lizzie Cox, deceased, says: Small as was her estate and much as she loved her family, with a true English woman's love, the sense of a direct service for Christ in obeying his last commands constrained her to consecrate a portion of her worldly estate to the mission work of the church. She, therefore, bequeathed one-fourth of that estate directly to the church. This yielded to the two wards of missions of her own Presbyterian Church about $500. To the mission work of the Southern Presbyterian Church she gave the like sum, this, in deference to the preferences of some of her kindred who belong to that church. About the sum of $500 was given the Danville Theological Seminary. After the use by two of her brothers, her portion, about $2,000, will be added to the bequest to the Danville Theological Seminary to found a perpetual scholarship for the continual support of one student in the gospel ministry.

CHOLERA.

SITUATION ALARMING.

PARIS, July 7.—Official reports from the cholera districts received last evening gave the number of deaths at Toulon as eight, and Marseilles none. Well authenticated reports have been received, stating that the authorities of both those cities minimize the number of deaths in order to save the people whose indignation against the Government's colonial policy causes much uneasiness among officials. The latter reports state there were fifteen deaths yesterday from cholera at Toulon and six at Marseilles. The scourge has brought on a commercial crisis in both cities, as already several failures are announced as a result of the exodus of the people fleeing from the dreaded disease. To add to the distress of the situation, small pox has broken out in the town of Levison with great virulence, and already seventeen deaths are reported.

QUARANTINE.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Secretary Frelinghuysen has received from Vice-Consul Wood, at Rome, the following telegram: "All vessels to Sicily and Sardinia are subject to ten days' quarantine; but not for other Italian ports. The quarantine is for cholera only. The general health is excellent; but one case of cholera occurred in quarantine in Madonna."

PARIS, July 7.—The official reports of deaths by cholera at Toulon and Marseilles show fifteen at the former and six at the latter place. A commercial crisis has commenced at each of those cities. Several failures having been announced as the result of the exodus of the mariners.

SMALL POX.

Has broken out at Levison, seventeen deaths being reported during the past twenty-four hours.

FATAL FIRE WORKS

Banging in Every Direction Kills

CHARDON, O., July 7.—This city was to have had a grand display of fireworks (partly of July evening under the management of a well-known director of our village. A large crowd of people, many of whom were in attendance. The exhibition was progressing splendidly from a stand erected in the public square, when suddenly, some smoldering paper from an exploded piece of pyrotechnics fell into a large box containing the rest of the fireworks, and they went off in all directions. A large rocket passed through the head of John Durfee, a Newberry farmer, killing him instantly. Another struck the jaw of John Cleveland, a druggist, of Burton, passing up into his brain, where it lodged. He died about two hours. Several others were hurt, but not fatally. It was a sad ending of what had been a very happy day.

A GEORGE SIGMAUT.

BATSWELL, O., July 7.—Six months ago a pleasant stranger, giving the name of Robert Hagee, presented himself at the farm house of Mrs. Malison Christian, a young widow of some means, and found ready employment. It did not take long, however, to be advanced from the post of servant to that of husband. The brought about gossip, which developed the fact that Mr. Hagee was already the proud husband of two wives in South Carolina, who still kept a warm place in their hearts for him. The industrious husband rode off with his third wife's horse and buggy between two suits of clothes, and the ill-fated widow offers a reward of $50 for his arrest.

NOMINATIONS CONTINUED.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—During an Executive session of the Senate this morning the following nominations were made: John A. Kasson, Iowa, Minister to Germany; Alphonso Taft, Minister to Russia; John M. Francis, Minister to Austria; and Lewis Richmond to be Minister resident to Portugal.
